Meeting the challenges of Agriculture and Forestry with Commissioner Bob Odom

Louisiana farmers are reporting that nearly every major crop in the state will approach or break its yield record in 2001, said Commissioner of Agriculture and Forestry Bob Odom.

"We've got some beautiful looking crops growing across Louisiana right now. If the weather holds off and we don't get too much rain during harvest it should be a banner production year," he said.

Among leading contenders for best crop of the year are sugarcane, rice, sorghum corn and cotton.

More than 65 percent of every major crop is rated "good" to "excellent" according to figures compiled by the Louisiana Agricultural Statistics Service.

"When we can say that high a percentage of each crop ranks in the two top categories we are looking at a harvest that is going to go a long way to overcoming the last three years of drought," Odom said. "Unfortunately, price is still down in many of these commodities but getting a high yield is half the battle."

"The only two growing negatives out there right now are a lot of flattened sugarcane from recent high winds and, for a change from recent years, too much rain in parts of the cotton area," Odom said. "The cane should partially right itself and continue to grow and the new harvesters can pick it up at harvest time. In cotton we are seeing wet bolls starting to rot low on the stalk where the sun can't get to it after heavy rains."

The statistics service says that Louisiana's 510,000 acres of sugarcane should hit 16.8 million net tons of sugar and seed, up 13 percent from last year. Yield per acre is forecast at 33 net tons, up 3.3 net tons. "If realized, this will be the highest acreage, yield and production ever recorded in the state. Louisiana will lead the nation in sugarcane production and acreage," the statistics service says. At the farm level, sugarcane is a $360 million commodity in the state.

Rice figures show that on Louisiana's 575,000 rice acres, yield will be 5,100 pounds per acre, breaking last year's record yield by 20 pounds. For rice producers, rice is valued in the $250 million to $300 million range each year in Louisiana.

Sorghum, used as a livestock feed, was planted on 235,000 acres in Louisiana this year. Its yield is forecast at 83 bushels per acre, which equals last year's record yield. Sorghum is about a $35 million crop annually.

At 900,000 acres, cotton at between $400 and $500 million a year is the largest and most valuable crop at the farm gate in Louisiana. This year production is forecast at 1.3 million bales, up 43 percent from 2000. Yield is forecast at 693 pounds of lint per acre, 64 pounds more than last year. The cotton yield record was 828 pounds of lint per acre set in 1991.

About 270,000 acres of corn is forecast to yield 124 bushels an acre, up eight bushels from last year and a new record. Its value will be in the $65 million range.

Soybean acreage has fallen 23 percent from 907,000 acres in 2000 to 670,000 acres in 2001 as farmers look for more profitable crops. However, yield at 31 bushels an acre is approaching the 1996 yield record of 33 bushels an acre. Total value will be about $80 million.

Roland LeBlanc's sugarcane jelly is available in four varieties: barbecue cane jelly, dark cane jelly, pepper cane jelly and lite cane jelly. The jellies are sold in grocery stores throughout the state, and are the first new product from sugarcane in more than 200 years.

First new sugar cane product produced in over 200 years

From the cure-all elixir Hadacol to the first new sugarcane product in more than 200 years, the LeBlanc family has been churning out one-of-a-kind products in Louisiana since 1945.

In recent years, Roland LeBlanc has poured his time and efforts into developing sugarcane jelly. His final product, LeBlanc's Cane Jelly, is available in four varieties and, according to LeBlanc, is the first new sugarcane product since 1794.

LeBlanc's creative ingenuity was inspired by his late grandfather, Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc, a Louisiana politician and entrepreneur. The elder LeBlanc invented Hadacol, a patented vitamin-mineral medication popular in the 1950s, especially in Hollywood, because of its high alcohol content.

"We're always pleased when someone uses their talent to develop a new product made from a Louisiana-grown commodity," Commissioner of Agriculture and Forestry Bob Odom said during a presentation to LeBlanc on Thursday.

"Roland's jellies are sure to be a hit in Louisiana and around the country," he added.

LeBlanc was presented the first "Best of Louisiana" award from the Department of Agriculture and Forestry. The award is part of a new program that will recognize producers and processors of Louisiana agricultural and forestry products for innovation, new product development, economic growth and expansion, and marketing excellence.

During the presentation, LeBlanc announced the date of the first Cane Jelly Culinary Invitational sponsored by the LeBlanc Jelly Company. The historical cooking event will be held Oct. 12-13 at the Harry Smith Lodge in Broussard.

"We're inviting all of the 4-H students, professional chefs and the general public to get creative and cook up a recipe with our cane jelly," LeBlanc said. Categories for entry include appetizers; beverages; desserts; entrees; wild game; seafood; grilling and barbecue; gravies, glazes, sauces and marinades; salads; and vegetables.

LeBlanc said contestants might enter multiple categories, with winners in each category receiving a commemorative medal.

"They are going to be very unique in their design and I think anybody would be proud to win one," he noted.

LeBlanc's process for turning juice from sugarcane into jelly is not one of the common kitchen experiments gone awry stories. His product is the result of three years of hard work and determination.

He recalled the story, "I have an insurance agency and I was visiting with a cane farmer one evening at his house. He was explaining that there was no new product from cane, and how the last product from it was granulated sugar.

"He said, 'It's impossible. They've searched and searched, and there is no new product you can get from cane.' On the way home I just blurted out, 'Why not make cane jelly? How hard can that be?' Well, it took me three years of experiments to get it right."

He attributed the difficulty of making cane jelly to the chemical properties of sugarcane. Without the acid, pectin and other components commonly found in fruits used for jelly making, LeBlanc had to work "out of the box" to get sugarcane to jell properly.

The jelly, which was first produced under the LeBlanc's Cane Jelly label in 1998, is available in four varieties: light cane jelly, dark cane jelly, pepper cane jelly and barbecue cane jelly.

LeBlanc's jellies can be found in Associated Grocers stores throughout the state, at Winn-Dixie and Albertson's south of I-10, and on the Internet at www.leblancjelly.com.

Lagniappe Cookery... Louisiana Rice Recipes

Rice offers versatility unsurpassed by any food. It can be used in recipes for soup, salads, main dishes and desserts. Rice is a complex carbohydrate. Complex carbohydrates are stored in muscles and released as energy - as needed. Nutritionist recommend that over half the calories we consume should come from complex carbohydrates.

Greek Rice Stuffed Tomatoes	Tangy Tomato and Lemon Risotto
8 large tomatoes *3 cups cooked Louisiana rice 1/2 cup minced red onion 3/4 cup crumbled feta cheese 1/2 cup chopped parsley 1 tablespoon salt 1/3 cup vegetable oil Slice off tops of tomatoes; scoop out insides. Turn over on paper towels; drain. In a large bowl, combine rice, onion, feta, parsley and salt. Spoon equal amounts of rice mixture into tomatoes, drizzle with oil and place in baking pan. Bake at 425° for 20 minutes.	1 tablespoon olive oil 2 finely chopped shallots *1 cup Louisiana rice 1 cup cherry tomatoes 1/4 cup lemon juice 1 tablespoon lemon peel 4 cup chicken broth Cook shallots until soft (about 3 minutes) in oil in 2-quart saucepan over medium-high heat. Add rice and cook 2-3 minutes. Add tomatoes, lemon juice, lemon peel and 1 cup chicken broth, stirring frequently, until broth is absorbed (about 20 - 30 minutes).
Parmesan Rice	Peppermint Rice Cloud
2 tablespoons butter *3 cups cooked Louisiana rice 1/2 ounce dried mushroom blend, re-hydrated and chopped 1/4 cup frozen petite peas, defrosted 1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese Melt butter in large skillet over medium heat. Add rice, mushrooms and peas; cook until heated through (about 5 minutes). Add parmesan; stir until well blended.	*2 cups cooked Louisiana rice 1 1/2 cups miniature marshmallows *1 cup low-fat milk 1/3 cup crushed peppermint candy 1 teaspoon vanilla extract 1 cup heavy cream, whipped 1 (9-inch) prepared chocolate crumb crust 1/4 cup fudge sauce, warmed Combine rice, marshmallows, milk and candy in 2-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat or until thick and creamy, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Cool completely. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into chocolate crust. Refrigerate at least 3 hours. To serve, drizzle with fudge sauce.

Stir-ins

If you love to cook but don't like following recipes, try these ideas:

Emerald Isle: Add peas and finely chopped fresh mint to hot, cooked rice.

Baked, but not Potato: Add crumbled bacon and sour cream to hot, cooked rice.

Maui Wowi: Add crushed pineapple and green bell pepper slices to hot, cooked rice.

Dracula's 'Shroom: Add mushrooms and garlic sauteed in butter to hot, cooked rice.

Mock Cobbler: Add sliced apples, cinnamon, brown sugar, chopped nuts, and vanilla yogurt to hot, cooked rice.

Pooh Bear's Favorite: Add milk, raisins, a little sugar and a dash of vanilla to hot, cooked rice. Simmer until thickened. Drizzle with honey.
